

December 10th 2012

It's December 10th 2012, with the end of days near
Exactly what will happen; the answer is not clear
No reason to worry; the agenda we cannot see
So sit down and shut-up and listen to me

The Findley's are Monday night's normal gig
But tonight they're on break, for a party that's big
I'm glad the Christmas lights are lit, for this time of year
For the bar lights don't work, but the reason's not clear

Known for the dogs that are displayed on the wall
The artist named Constance, once gave me a call
Many things at the 'Wood, never seem to change
When things here don't work, it doesn't seem strange

The election has passed, but not without pain
I think in our minds, there's a permanent stain
The candidate you wanted, may not have had their day
But we should all be glad, that we live in the USA

Thanks to Bill Landis, the Groove Fest lives on Live music is the best way, to hear any song
The audience is appreciative, of the music they play
But money in the tip bowl, is how we get them to stay

The food tonight was donated, by friends at the 'wood
They come here for a drink, and hear music that's good
We also asked the owner, for assistance you know
And believe or not, we got money from Moe

Enjoy tonight's party; it comes once a year
Eat up the food and drink down the beer
If a future we have, no matter what the Mayans say
We'll do it again next year; I hope and I pray

Merry Christmas
